History of the Institution	Deshapran College of Teachers' Education is named after the famous freedom fighter, whose name was Deshapran Birendranath Sasmal. He was born in Chandiveti, a nearby village where this college is situated. Many people from distant places come to see his native home even today. There is a place called Hawa Khana beside his home. He used to spend some time in that place. There is a river in Deshapran Block, named Rasulpur river. The great novelist Bankim Chandra has mentioned about this river in his famous novel 'Nabakumar'. The place where this B.Ed. college is situated, was full of water long ago. Even small boats were used for transportation. There was a tamarind tree at the southern end of that place, where these boats were tied up by ropes. This particular tree even exists today. This place is known as Jahajbandha tamarind tree. The Aurai village (where this college is now situated) gave birth to many freedom fighters. Among them many died long before. There is a Kali Mandir not far from this college. The Kali Puja at this mandir is a very famous and old tradition within the Contai Block. Many people come to see that famous festival with their devotional faith. There is also a village called Bahiri. This village is not far from Aurai village. Bahiri village is also famous for its historical background. There is a Mandir called "Jora Deul." It is said that this Mandir was built within one night. Jagannath Mandir, Baro Math, Choto Math are also the famous places in Bahiri.
Vision Statement	It was the vision of the present management to provide quality teacher education programme to the needy student of an educationally backward area like Auria, where the students have potentiality but very little scope to actualize their potentials.
Mission and Objectives	The institution with qualified and competent faculties has a determination to get cent percent result of the learners. This is the chief mission of the institution. It aims at promoting balanced and good personality of the learners to be successful and acclaimed in future with their respective profession. As it is a teacher education institution, the ethics of good teachers are permeated all through the surroundings.
